Foreign Ministry says 34th anniversary of Black January coincides with complete restoration of country's sovereignty over Karabakh.

Azerbaijan on Saturday commemorated the 1990 Black January, the day when 147 people were killed during a protest in Baku that also injured 744 others.

"Today, it has been 34 years since the military assault against the people of Azerbaijan and an unprecedented massacre targeting civilians by the former Soviet regime in breach of international law," the Azerbaijani Foreign Ministry said in a statement on the occasion.
