Armenia invited Azerbaijan to sign a non-aggression pact if the process of signing a peace treaty takes too long, Prime Minister of Armenia Nikol Pashinyan said, Trend reports.

We proposed to Azerbaijan to introduce a mechanism for mutual arms control. It was also proposed to sign a non-aggression pact if it turns out that the signing of a peace treaty will take longer than expected, Pashinyan said.

He also noted that Armenia is committed to the peace agenda and will not deviate from it.
