Uzbekistan and Russia are discussing the conclusion of a long-term contract with a gradual increase in gas supply volumes, Russian ambassador to Uzbekistan Oleg Malginov said, TurkicWorld reports.

He said that Russian gas supplies, which started within a two-year contract in October 2023, significantly contribute to the stabilization of Uzbekistan's economy.

"Russian gas has already been supplied, and this is a significant contribution to the stabilization of Uzbekistan's economy and social sphere. Last year it was a bit cold, but thanks to gas supplies this year, everything went smoothly," the diplomat noted.
