To date, 16 mass graves have been discovered in the Azerbaijani territories of liberated from Armenian occupation, said Deputy Head of the working group of the State Commission for Captives and Missing Citizens Eldar Samedov, Trend reports.

"Based on the gathered data, efforts persist to ascertain the locations of mass graves. Negotiating mined territories poses a primary challenge to the search process, while the lack of cooperation from the Armenian side presents a secondary obstacle in locating these graves," the deputy head added.

To note, on the night of February 25-26, 1992, Khojaly city was occupied by Armenias armed forces with the assistance of the former USSRs 366th Motorized Rifle Regiment following massive artillery shelling.
