President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan and Iraqi Prime Minister Mohammed S. Al Sudani on Monday oversaw the signing of a preliminary agreement between Türkiye, Iraq, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to cooperate on the Development Road project.

The deal on the landmark road and rail project that is expected to consolidate economic ties between the two neighbors came on the sidelines of Erdoğan's long-awaited visit to Baghdad, the first by a Turkish leader since 2011.

Accompanied by a large delegation, Erdoğan held talks with Iraqi President Abdel Latif Rashid and Al Sudani. Cooperation on big economic projects was also on the table.
