Kosovo's Prime Minister, Albin Kurti, said on Wednesday that his government will not send the Statute of the Association of Serb-Majority Municipalities, ASMM, for review to the Constitutional Court, a step required by some states before Council of Europe membership is put on the agenda for the mid-May CoE ministers summit.

Insisting that Kosovo has fulfilled all the obligations for membership, Kurti said the Statute does not yet present a formal document, as it was not accepted by Serbia last year during EU-facilitated dialogue talks between the countries on normalization of relations.
