Armenia believes that the question of whether to continue the process under the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) Minsk Group should be considered within the context of signing a peace treaty with Azerbaijan, according to the country's Foreign Ministry.

Azerbaijani President Ilham Aliyev recently stated that Armenia is refusing to jointly apply for the dissolution of the Minsk Group. The group was established in 1992 to advance international mediatory efforts to achieve a negotiated peace for the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over the Nagorno-Karabakh region, to be dissolved.

Meanwhile, among other things, Azerbaijan is demanding that Armenia agree to this dissolution before a peace treaty can be signed between the two South Caucasus countries.
