The Development Road Project will contribute to sustainable economic growth and improve living standards, advisor to Iraq's premier Fadi al-Shammari tells Anadolu Agency.

The Development Road Project is the most significant strategic cooperation between Iraq and Türkiye, said an advisor to the Iraqi prime minister on Wednesday.

Speaking to Anadolu, Fadi al-Shammari described Iraq-Türkiye relations as "promising," highlighting that the Development Road Project is central to this cooperation. He noted that recent years have seen improvements in bilateral ties, underscored by economic and security agreements aimed at ensuring stability and boosting investment.
