Uzbek President Shavkat Mirziyoyev on Tuesday said that his country will sign a deal to supply green energy to Europe in the coming days.

In the coming days, we will sign a multilateral agreement on supplying green energy to Europe, Mirziyoyev said while addressing the UN Climate Change Conference's (COP29) World Leaders Summit in Baku.

Calling climate change a major global threat that directly causes geopolitical tensions, Mirziyoyev said it also intensifies issues related to various problems, including food and energy security and access to water and resources.
