It is now the law of the land to seek EU integration.

January 2025 may go down as Armenias geopolitical inflection point, a time when Yerevan decisively moved to shun its longtime protector Russia and pin its political and economic future on integration with Western institutions, thus scrambling the strategic balance in the Caucasus.

Armenian officials have taken steps in recent days to formalize the countrys improving relationship with the United States and European Union. On January 14, US and Armenian diplomats signed a strategic partnership agreement, paving the way for stronger trade, strategic and political ties between the two states.
