The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Russian Federation (21 January 2025)

Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen.

It's been a while since we last discussed bilateral matters substantively. While we have met on the sidelines of various events, we haven't had the opportunity to look into nearly all bilateral issues in such great detail. I'm glad we were able to bridge that gap today.

I would like to particularly emphasise the fact that these talks held as agreed by the respective leaders of Russia and Armenia were particularly fulfilling and productive. They built upon the ideas discussed during contacts between President Vladimir Putin and Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan.

We had a candid discussion covering nearly the full scope of our relations, as well as regional and international issues. We managed to reach mutually acceptable solutions with regard to a number of issues.
