As they head to the Swiss Alps for this years World Economic Forum, EU leaders are anxious over Trumps trade saber-rattling and their China-reliant economies.

European leaders are flocking to Davos for the annual World Economic Forum this week □ and their speaking engagements offer an insight into their state of mind. Betraying the anxiety stoked by their flailing economies and Donald Trumps second term in office are panels on the topics of Europe: Finding the Money, Debating Tariffs, How to Project Europes Power, and Diplomacy amid Disorder.

Trump is pushing the Europeans into making a lose-lose choice.
