The draft law On the approval of the Intergovernmental Agreement on Cooperation in the Gas Sector between Turkiye and Azerbaijan has been placed on the agenda of the Turkish Grand National Assembly for discussion.

Azernews reports that speaker of the Turkish Parliament, Numan Kurtulmuş, approved the consideration of the draft law.

Signed in Istanbul on May 14, 2024, the intergovernmental agreement aims to enhance cooperation between Azerbaijan and Turkiye in the energy sector. Following its review by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Turkish Parliament on January 16, a corresponding report was prepared, highlighting the successful energy projects between the two countries, including the Baku-Tbilisi-Erzurum gas pipeline, the Trans-Anatolian pipeline, and the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan oil pipeline.
