During the trial at the Baku Military Court on March 17, accused Lyova Mnatsakanyan acknowledged that appointments to high-ranking positions in the so-called regime's "army" were directly decided by Armenia, Azernews reports.

He revealed that appointments at the rank of lieutenant colonel and higher were made by the Chief of Staff of the Armenian Armed Forces, the Minister of Defense, and the President of Armenia.

"As the 'commander' of the 'army,' I could appoint positions lower than that, including majors, and give ranks up to majors," Mnatsakanyan stated.
