Fortify Rights finds certain acts committed by militants against Rohingya constitute war crimes.
Recent US government funding cuts are creating more space for Rohingya militants in refuged camps in Bangladesh, which will significantly worsen the security of the refugees, a human rights group said in a report Tuesday.
The 78-page report by Fortify Rights said members of Rohingya militant groups in Bangladesh killed 22 people in 2021, 42 in 2022, 90 in 2023 and at least 65 in 2024.
