Moscow to closely examine Washingtons statements on regional transport links, given this directly impacts Russias strategic interests, says spokesperson.

Moscow views the results of Fridays meeting between Armenian and Azerbaijani leaders in Washington positively, Russias Foreign Ministry said Saturday.

"We consistently support all efforts aimed at achieving this key goal crucial to regional security. In this regard, the meeting of leaders from the South Caucasian republics in Washington with American mediation deserves positive evaluation," spokeswoman Maria Zakharova said in a statement on the ministry website.
