Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan shared his perspective on why the countrys former presidents failed to capitalise on what he described as wonderful options regarding Karabakh.

Speaking in a video clip, as reported by Caliber.Az citing Armenian media, Pashinyan outlined two explanations. The first, he said, involves criminal inaction, potentially influenced by the interests of foreign powers, which deprived us of the opportunity to achieve an excellent solution.

The second explanation, according to Pashinyan, is that these so-called wonderful solutions were merely the product of brainstorming and represented a political deception that could never have been implemented.
