Azerbaijan's President Ilham Aliyev has said that Azerbaijan-U.S. relations have entered a new stage following Donald Trump's re-election as U.S. president. He emphasized that important documents were signed to advance bilateral relations during his visit to Washington in August this year.

Speaking at a meeting with a delegation from the U.S. Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on Thursday, President Aliyev also highlighted the historical significance of the agreements reached between Azerbaijan and Armenia in Washington, stressing their important role in regional development, News.Az reports, citing AZERTAC.

The delegation congratulated President Aliyev on the outcome of the Washington summit, which advanced the peace agenda between Azerbaijan and Armenia under President Trump's mediation.
