Serb president 'in Bosnia capital during tourist sniper spree'

Croatian investigative reporter on Wednesday filed a complaint with Milan prosecutors against Serbian President Aleksandar Vucic for his alleged involvement in the so-called "Sarajevo Safari" affair, in which alleged snipers from Italy and other countries allegedly traveled to the Bosnian capital during its 1992 siege by the Serbs to shoot for fun and for a large sum of money, at unarmed civilians, including women and children.

Domagoj Margetic filed his complaint against the Serbian head of State with the prosecutors who are investigating the case.
