President of Kazakhstan Kassym-Jomart Tokayev hosted Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan on Nov. 21 in Astana for talks aimed at strengthening bilateral relations and cooperation.

During the meeting, President Tokayev highlighted the long-standing friendship and mutual respect between the peoples of Kazakhstan and Armenia. He noted that Armenia is one of Kazakhstans key political, trade, and economic partners in the South Caucasus, reported Akorda.

Cultural ties have been reinforced through initiatives such as the Days of Kazakhstan Culture in Armenia and the opening of a park in Yerevan honoring Kazakh poet and educator Abai Kunanbaiuly.
