South Korean President Lee Jae Myung on Saturday asked German Chancellor Friedrich Merz to share Germanys experience with achieving reunification in 1990.
"There is much for the Republic of Korea (South Korea) to learn from Germany's experience," Lee said Saturday during his first in-person meeting with Merz on the sidelines of the G20 Summit ir Johannesburg, South Africa.
"We should learn about how Germany overcame division and achieved reunification, and the Republic of Korea should follow that path as well," he added, according to Yonhap News.
