Mutual trade between Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan more than quadrupled over the past five years, Head of State Kassym-Jomart Tokayev said during the extended-attendance talks with President of Turkmenistan Serdar Berdimuhamedov at the Akorda Palace, Qazinform News Agency reports.

Kassym-Jomart Tokayev said Kazakhstan attaches exceptional importance the state visit of Serdar Berdimuhamedov. His visit is expected to bring multifaceted interstate relations between the two states to a new level. Relying on centuries-old friendship, good neighborliness, and shared cultural and historical values, Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan have built strong and harmonious relations that are steadily developing in the spirit of strategic partnership.

He noted the countries established productive cooperation between the two countries at all levels.
