China on Monday rejected unreasonable Japanese arguments in a second letter to UN Secretary General Antonio Guterres amid ongoing tensions over Taiwan.

China's permanent representative to the UN, Fu Cong, wrote to the UN on the issue regarding provocative remarks on Taiwan made by Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi.

We have noted that on 24 November, Japans Permanent Representative to the United Nations sent you a letter making unreasonable arguments, dodging the key issues, while groundlessly accusing China and seeking to shift blame. China firmly opposes this, Fu said.
