Iraqi News Agency (2 December 2025)

The Special Representative of the UN Secretary-General for Iraq, Mohammed al-Hassan, affirmed on Tuesday that Iraq successfully held transparent elections with a high voter turnout and expressed his confidence that the new Iraqi government would be formed without delay.

During his briefing to the UN Security Council, as reported by the Iraqi News Agency (INA), al-Hassan said, This briefing comes just before the end of UNAMIs mission and is the last one.

Iraq has triumphed over terrorism thanks to its people and international support, and I am confident the new Iraqi government will be formed without delay, he added.
