The European Union and Armenia have agreed on a new Strategic Agenda for their partnership, signaling a significant step forward in enhancing political, economic, and sectoral cooperation, as stated on the EU delegation's website in Armenia.

According to the statement, the document was endorsed by the EU-Armenia Partnership Council and replaces the 2017 Partnership Priorities, setting out a more ambitious and comprehensive framework for joint action, News.Az reports citing Armenian media.

It is noted that building on the foundations of the EU-Armenia Comprehensive and Enhanced Partnership Agreement (CEPA), the Strategic Agenda charts a shared vision for the coming years and responds to Armenias expressed ambition to strengthen ties with the EU. It reflects the enhanced momentum in bilateral relations and covers a wide range of areas, including democracy and rule of law, justice reform, human rights, socio-economic development, connectivity, energy security, digital transformation, trade diversification, and new cooperation on security and defence.
