Georgia considers Azerbaijan a special friend, with exceptionally close relations between the governments of the two countries, Georgian Prime Minister Irakli Kobakhidze said in an interview with Public Television on Tuesday.

Kobakhidze made the remarks while commenting on his recent contacts with the Azerbaijani leadership, News.Az reports, citing Azerbaijani media.

I had a very sincere meeting with Azerbaijan's Prime Minister Ali Asadov in Turkmenistan. Overall, Azerbaijan is our special friend, and there are exceptional relations of friendship between our governments. Therefore, finding common ground on any issue will not be difficult for us, the Georgian prime minister said.
