Armenia and China have reached a new level in their relations and now stand at a fresh starting point, facing broad prospects and the opportunity to develop various programs for the future, Chinas Ambassador to Armenia Li Xinwei said.

The purpose of this discussion is not to boast about Chinas development achievements or simply promote Chinas experience, he said at the Strengthening China-Armenia Strategic Partnership: A Dialogue on Governance Experience Exchange international conference in Yerevan.

Our goal is to explore how to achieve comprehensive and sustainable development for our countries and societies in a changing world, and how to foster mutual trust and cooperation among peoples in a world full of competition and conflict. This year has been unprecedented not only for the world but also for China and Armenia. Together, we have witnessed many changes and important moments. This year, Chinas economy has achieved a high level of development, the ambassador said.
