Türkiye has reached an agreement with Azerbaijan on a new long-term natural gas supply contract totaling 33 billion cubic meters, Turkish Minister of Energy and Natural Resources Alparslan Bayraktar said.

According to Bayraktar, the gas will be supplied from Azerbaijans Absheron field. The agreement is set for 15 years and provides for annual deliveries of 2.25 billion cubic meters, with overall supplies expected to continue into the 2040s, News.Az reports, citing local media.

The minister said the final stage of negotiations has already been completed and that the signing of the relevant documents is expected in the near future.
