Azerbaijani President İlham Aliyev said on Jan. 20 that his country's leadership and Armenias made a joint decision to close their chapter of conflict.

"It was a joint decision by [the] Armenian and Azerbaijani leadership to close that chapter [of war] and to see the opportunities for peace," Aliyev told a panel session at the annual World Economic Forum meeting in Davos, Switzerland.

During the panel, which was also attended by Armenian President Vahagn Khachaturyan, Aliyev criticized international institutions for their inability to resolve the three-decade conflict between their countries, responding to a question on the current state of multilateralism.
