Georgian Prime Minister Irakli Kobakhidze has announced that by the end of 2030, construction work on almost all major sections of the Georgian highway [] the Turkish border to the borders with Azerbaijan and Armenia—will be completed.

Speaking on PostTV, the Georgian PM said that his government strives to maximize the countrys strategic position and, for this purpose, is developing its transport infrastructure.

We strive to maximize our countrys strategic position, and one of our goals is the development of transport infrastructure and transit functions, Kobakhidze said.
