Azerbaijan and Iran have reviewed the current state of bilateral cooperation in the energy sector during a meeting between Azerbaijan's Minister of Energy Parviz Shahbazov and Iran's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Azerbaijan, Mojtaba Demirchilou, AzerNEWS reports, citing the Ministry.

The discussions focused on ongoing joint energy projects, their implementation status, and prospects for further development. The sides exchanged views on strengthening collaboration and accelerating the execution of agreed initiatives.

It was noted that the upcoming session of the Azerbaijan-Iran State Commission on Economic, Trade and Humanitarian Cooperation, scheduled to be held in Baku in the coming days, is expected to give additional momentum to the advancement of existing projects.
