Greek Prime Minister Kyriakos Mitsotakis said Greece seeks a "normal, functional relationship" with Türkiye following his meeting with President Recep Tayyip Erdogan at the 6th Greece-Türkiye High-Level Cooperation Council in Ankara on Feb. 11.

"With President Erdogan, we had a frank and substantive discussion about what brings us closer together, but also about what divides us," Mitsotakis wrote in a Facebook post Sunday, Feb. 15.

"Our disagreements are real and significant. We do not underestimate them," he noted.
