ArmenPress (6 March 2026)

The escalation in the Middle East does not pose a risk to Armenias agreements with the United States or Azerbaijan, according to a senior lawmaker.

MP Artur Hovhannisyan, Secretary of the ruling Civil Contract partys faction in parliament, told reporters that the Armenia-U.S. and Armenia-Azerbaijan agreements are not jeopardized. He was referring to the bilateral agreements on cooperation between Yerevan and Washington, as well as the U.S.-brokered Armenian-Azerbaijani peace treaty initialed on August 8, 2025. The TRIPP connectivity project is part of the deal.

We are moving forward based on the existing documents and agreements. A Security Council meeting has been held, the risks and issues have been addressed, and we are monitoring the situation. All risks related to events occurring at our border are being communicated to the relevant authorities, he said.
