Bangladesh has secured diesel imports from several nations including India, Malaysia, and Singapore to help ease a squeeze in energy supplies due to the ongoing conflict in the Middle East.

India has started supplying around 10,000 metric tons of diesel to Bangladesh through the Bangladesh-India Friendship Pipeline (BIFP).

Monir Hossain Chowdhury, a senior official at the Energy and Mineral Resources Division of Bangladeshs government, told Anadolu that they have received 10,000 metric tons this month via the BIFP.
