A mine explosion in Azerbaijan's Fuzuli District has killed a member of the national demining agency while carrying out official duties, authorities said.

According to the Azerbaijan National Agency for Mine Action (ANAMA), the incident occurred on April 14 in the Ashagi Abdurrahmanli village area of the district, News.Az reports, citing AZERTAC.

The victim, born in 1995, was performing demining operations when a tank mine detonated. Despite emergency response efforts, the employee died at the scene.
