Report News Agency (14 April 2026)

President's Representative on Special Assignments of Azerbaijan Elchin Amirbayov said Azerbaijan and the Czech Republic have been bound by a strategic partnership agreement since 2015, highlighting significant untapped potential in bilateral cooperation, Report informs via CNN Prima News.

Speaking to the Czech broadcaster during a visit to Prague, Amirbayov said existing cooperation focuses mainly on energy, while sectors such as industry, agriculture and tourism still offer major opportunities.

He said recent high-level contacts, including a meeting between Azerbaijan's president and the Czech prime minister at the World Economic Forum in Davos, could lead to more active engagement in the coming months.
