The Russian president also envisioned Ukraine wars end with Schröder in negotiation role

At a Saturday press conference, Russian President Vladimir Putin discussed a possible end to the Ukraine war, Gerhard Schröders potential role as a negotiator, and likened Armenias EU bid to what he called the start of everything thats happening in Ukraine.

Asked at a press conference after the Victory Day parade about Yerevans EU aspirations, Putin said it would be quite logical to hold a referendum and ask the Armenian citizens what their choice would be. Based on that, we would make our own choice as well.
