President of Kazakhstan Kassym-Jomart Tokayev and President of Russia Vladimir Putin adopted a joint statement on May 28 outlining seven key pillars of bilateral friendship and cooperation amid growing global instability and geopolitical challenges, Akorda reported.

The leaders described the shared border between the two countries as a symbol of trust and economic connectivity, stressing the importance of cross-border trade, environmental cooperation, transport links, and joint management of water and Caspian Sea issues.

Both countries pledged to deepen trade, investment, and industrial cooperation, expand the use of national currencies, and coordinate efforts to mitigate the impact of external economic pressures.
