European Commission president says Armenia will receive additional $20.5M to strengthen, diversify trade.

The EU will provide Armenia with an additional 205 million ($20.5 million) and introduce trade measures that will make nearly 80% of Armenian exports to the bloc tariff-free, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said.

Speaking in Yerevan after meeting Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, von der Leyen said Armenia is moving closer to Europe while the South Caucasus is becoming more integrated.
