The Caspian Post (23 July 2026)

Kazakhstan is cementing its reputation as Central Asia's most stable investment destination, with a sharp rise in global rankings highlighting growing confidence in the country's economy and institutions.

According to the Safest Countries for Investors 2026 ranking, Kazakhstan climbed to 53rd place among 150 countries, up from 70th in October 2025. The improvement underscores increasing international trust in the country's economic resilience, macroeconomic management, and investor-friendly reforms, The Caspian Post reports via Kazinform.
