Türkiye, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Bulgaria could sign an intergovernmental agreement in November to advance a regional project for cross-border transmission and trade of green electricity, Energy and Natural Resources Minister Alparslan Bayraktar said Friday.

Speaking at the Azerbaijan-Türkiye Energy Forum in Baku, Bayraktar said the deal could be signed during the COP31 climate conference, which will be held in southern Antalya in November.

The Green Electricity Transmission and Trade Project, bringing together Türkiye, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Bulgaria, represents an important regional vision, the minister said.
