

Contributors

Ömer Engin LÜTEM is a retired ambassador and the honorary president of Center for Eurasian Studies (AVİM). He graduated from Galatasaray High School and the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of Ankara. After several assignments in Turkish missions in France, Germany, Italy, and Libya, he became Turkish Consul General at Cologne, Germany in 1975. He served as Director General of Personnel of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Turkey in 1979 and Director General of Intelligence and Research of the Ministry in 1981. He was assigned as the Ambassador of the Republic of Turkey to Bulgaria in 1983 and served for six years. He served as Deputy Undersecretary of the Ministry (1989-1992), Ambassador of the Republic of Turkey to the Vatican (1992-1995), and the Permanent Representative of the Republic of Turkey to UNESCO (1995-1997). He is the founding president of Institute for Armenian Research at Eurasian Strategic Research Center - ASAM (2001) and the Crimes Against Humanity Research Institute (2006). He served as the Director of AVİM between 2009-2012. He is currently the editor of three journals published by AVİM: Ermeni Araştırmaları, Review of Armenian Studies, and International Crimes and History. Apart from these, since 2006, he has been the instructor of a master's degree course titled "Emergence and Evolution of the Armenian Question" at the History Department of the Middle Eastern Technical University (METU), Ankara.

Ebru ÇOBAN ÖZTÜRK serves as an Assistant Professor at Çankaya University, Department of Political Science and International Relations. She received her undergraduate degree from Middle East Technical University, Faculty of Economic and Administrative Sciences, Department of International Relations. Afterwards, she received both her master's and doctoral degrees from Ankara University, Faculty of Political Science, Department of International Relations. She has participated in various projects and assignments in many countries and conflict zones. She currently conducts fieldwork and theoretical studies on the subjects of violence and genocide, and has published extensively on these subjects.

Olga Bykova Hergül is a PhD candidate at Ural State University (Ural Federal University - UrFU). She graduated from Ural State University's Faculty of International Relations, Department of Oriental Studies in 2008. Upon graduation, she continued her education by applying for the doctoral degree program at the same university. For the 2009-2010 education year, she earned a research scholarship from the Ministry of National Education of the Republic of Turkey and worked as a researcher at Istanbul University's the Institute of Atatürk's Principles and History of Turkish Revolution and conducted research on the "Armenian Question". In 2011-2013, she served as an instructor at Yeditepe University. She has given lectures on Russian language and Russia's history and culture. Bykova Hergül, whose mother tongue is Russian, also speaks Turkish, English, and Spanish. She has participated as a translator in many high level events and meetings that have been organized with the attendance of political leaders, statesmen, and business world representatives between Turkey and Russia. She continues her professional life as a translator in the banking sector.

Maxime GAUIN is a Scholar in Residence at the Center for Eurasian Studies (AVİM). He has an MA in History from Paris-I-Sorbonne University. He is currently a PhD candidate at the Middle East Technical University, Department of History. He has published articles in several academic journals. He regularly contributes to different newspapers with his commentaries.

Ömer Lütfi TAŞCIOĞLU, PhD, is a retired staff colonel and member of the Board of Directors of the National Strategic Research Council, the Talaat Pasha Committee, and ANKA Institute's Scientific Advisory Board. Dr. Taşcıoğlu graduated from the Turkish Military Academy in 1970 and from the Turkish War College in 1983. He is also a graduate of the International Relations Department of Ankara University, and the English Language and Literature Department of Istanbul University. He retired from the Turkish Armed Forces in 2001 following a career which spanned 31 years, including positions abroad as military attaché and active combat in the 1974 Cyprus Peace Operation. After retirement from the military, Dr. Taşcıoğlu worked at the Turkish Chief of General Staff's Strategic Research Center (SAREM). Taşcıoğlu obtained his doctoral degree (with a thesis focusing on the Turkish-Armenian controversy) in 2014 at International Relations Department of Gazi University. His published works include "Turkey-European Union Relations," "The Measures Required to Bring Closure to the Armenian Issue," "Meaning Disparities in English Language Military Terminology," "The USA's Policy of Globalization and the Role of Turkey" and "Historical, Political and Legal Facts Relating to Turkish-Armenian Relations."

